The board's action was based upon a report by Mr. C. B. He states that, acting upon the assumption that no cleaning had been done, the department caused the dirt to be removed. with the resulting assessment.

ACADEMY MILITARY

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF VISI-TORS.

Most Important Feature is That Relating to the Proposed New Buildings to Be Erected.

The board of visitors to the West Point Military Academy, of which Charles F. Roe of New York was president, has made its annual report to the War Department. The most important feature of the report, in view of the new buildings which are to be erected at West Point under the legislation of the last Congress, is that pertaining to buildings. The board says that all matters pertaining to the buildings should be acted upon by a committee of not less than three members of the academic board selected by the superintendent of the academy, these members to submit their report to the whole board, and any action taken to be subject to the approval of the Secretary of War. "This matter," says the report, "is of so much importance to the people of the whole country that it should be under the control of the board." It is stated that the recommendation is not intended as a reflection upon the present superintendent, Colonel Mills, as the board commends the superintendent very highly for what he has done in the matter of buildings at the academy.

The board commends the regulations now in force for the acceptance of graduates with certificates from high schools and normal schools, and of candidates having a college standing. The report states that in-asmuch as the states and territories are quite generally supplied with high schools and colleges, and as West Point is a tech-nical institution of the military art and science, the entrance requirements should be enlarged from time to time as rapidly and extensively as practicable with the pur-pose of permitting an extension in instruction on purely military subjects, and of lessening the strain which now exists owing to the large amount of elementary teaching crowded into the four years' course. The board does not approve the suggestion that a fifth year be added to the course, or that a preparatory school for one year should be located near West Point for the reception of cadets designated for the academy. The board commends the change in the law under which the number of cadets shall be substantially increased, and also commends the method of dividing classes into small sections for purposes of instruc-The board recommends that officers detailed to teach French and Spanish be ordered abroad for the purpose of familiariz ing themselves with those languages. It is the opinion of the board that the instructors should visit other institutions of learning, and that they should in other ways bring the academy into closer relations with the general educational system of the country. It approves the fact that heads of departnents and instructors are striving to themselves in closer touch with cadets, to the end that the latter feel less restraint in calling upon the former for necessary assistance. The enlarged social privileges of the cadets is commended and the recomnendation of Colonel Mills that a course of lectures form a feature of the year's course

It is recommended that each member of Congress appoint a principal and a first and second alternate in order that the number of cadets may be kept at the maximum; it also is recommended that the pay of the cadet be made $69 per month, the same as a midshipman at the Naval Academy.

In the way of armament the board recomnends a modern sea coast battery, consisting of emplacements of two 8-inch breech-loading rifles, one six-inch gun, one fifteenplant and storage battery, and a 30-inch electric search light. The report states that the board notes the caps and the blouses of the officers do not always appear to be uniform in appearance, and as the cadets will pattern after their officers, it is recommended that steps be taken to remedy the fault. Many features of the academy and its administration are highly commended.

The festivities of Asbury Park's bright summer season follow one another in rapid succession during these bright days of early August, and the resort was so thoroughly filled with summer visitors by last Saturday night that at many of the hotels the cots were brought into use, and the drawing rooms and billiard rooms forced to do duty as sleeping apartments.

The Wesley Lake carnival committee are very busy just now with the collection of funds for the purpose of defraying the expenses and the meeting with excellent success. At the lake workmen are engaged in erecting the platforms and supporting towers for the electric illumination and the fireworks and the carnival, which is to take place next Wednesday evening, bids fair to surpass any festivity of a similar nature given in Asbury Park in many years. The "San Toy" cotillion and Japanese fete projected by the management of the Cole-man House for next Wednesday evening will be by long odds the most elaborate function of the social season at that house.

The hotel will be decorated throughout with Japanese draperies, and the verandas of the dancers will be Chinese throughout and the figures of the dance are to be arranged to represent some of the attractive stage pictures presented in the dainty opera "San Toy." Detective Baur left police headquarters yesterday afternoon with the description of a man who had stolen a bicycle during the day. When he reached the corner of 3d and E streets northwest he saw a man riding toward him on a bicycle who answered the description of the man for whom he was looking. "Where did you get that wheel?" the officer asked.

"I just bought it from a man over on Capitol Hill, but if it belongs to you, you may have it," the officer was told. "It's not mine, but I'm looking for it, so I'll take you and the wheel," was the answer. On arriving at the detective office the thefts of two other bicycles which had been recovered were traced to the man, who gave his name as O'Leary.

ROSEHILL TOOK GUNS

INSTRUCTED TO PLANT COLORS ON MARCUS ISLAND.

Intended to Force the Japanese to Allow Americans to Land-Advices

From Honolulu.

HONOLULU, August 2, via San Francisco, August 8 .- According to the Honolulu men who are interested in the Marcus Island guano expedition, against which Japan has sent a war vessel, as reported by the last advices received from the states, the vessel which left here for the island carried a complement of Mauser rifles, and her captain had instructions from the company to plant the American flag on the island and keep it floating until compelled to haul it down. Capt. A. A. Rosehill, the discoverer of the island, who left his claim to it on a cocoanut tree on Marcus Island in 1889, is in command of the expedition. The company's claim is based on this title which is on record at the State Department in Washington.

No intimation that the vessel left here with any arms on board was given out until the news was received that Japan had laid claim to the island and had dispatched a war vessel there. Col. Thomas Fitch then made public the instructions given to Capt. Rosehill, which, while designed to prevent any conflict, were intended to compel the Japanese to allow the Americans to land or use force to drive them away.

Rosehill's Instructions.

Capt. Rosehill's instructions from the company are to inform the Japanese on Marcus Island that his expedition is a peaceful one, for the purpose of making a scientific investigation of the value of the guano deposit of the island, and attempt to make a peaceful landing.

In the event the Japanese still refuse to allow him to land, Rosehill is to sail away out of sight of the island and return under cover of darkness, land an armed force and raise the American flag and keep it up until it is torn down by a superior force. At the same time the captain was told to avoid a conflict in every way possible.

In Case of a War Vessel.

In the event of his encountering a Japanese war vessel, the commander of the expedition was to present his credentials as the discoverer of the island and the agent of the Marcus Island Guano Company and to state that the object of his expedition was to make a scientific examination of the island for the company. If the island was found to be of value, the matter of ownership was to be referred to the United States and Japanese governments. If the officers of the war vessel still refused to allow a landing, Capt. Rosehill was in-structed to start ashore with an unarmed force in a boat flying the American flag and attempt a landing and carry out the purposes of the expedition unless physi-cally restrained.

It is thought the schooner commanded by Rosehill, the Julia E. Whalen, has arrived there by this time and that the Jap anese war vessel was there first. The Whalen has on board a crew of nine and a cook, with Taxidermist W. A. Bryan of the Bishop Museum, Honolulu, and T. F. Sedgwick of the United States agricultural station, who went to make examination of the guano deposits. According to Fitch there are Mausers and ammunition for all on board the schooner.

SALE OF FRIARS' LANDS.

Report of Transfer to a Syndicate is Doubted.

A Manila dispatch says: Nothing is known here of the reported sale of the lands of the friars to an American syndicate and the statement that such a sale has estates in the Island of Luzon to the Philippine Sugar Estates Development Company, in which certain Americans are interested, in January, 1900. The government has questioned the legality of this transfer and the matter is now pending before the courts. Some property belonging to other religious orders here is nominally outside of the control of the church and judicial action will probably be necessary before the government purchases the friar lands. That property is doubted. The status of the holdngs of the friars is not believed to nave changed since Gov. Taft left the Philippines for Washington last December.

In Memoriam.

COSTELLO. Mr. JOHN COSTELLO (known to many as Joe Casey) passed to a higher sphere of usefulness and well-earned joy August 5, 1902, after a life of self-sacrifice and devotion to his family and friends; a tender, indulgent, unselfish father to his daughter and two sons, who are left to sorrow at his sudden demise. To his daughter he was not only the tender, loving father, but also the closest, most intimate of friends, ever ready to sympathize and advise, ever slow to chide. She pays loving tribute to his memory and feels that

"All is well with him,

"All is we'l with him, The light of God's love is fipon him."
